DESCRIPTION

Effective administrators and assessment personnel create efficient and collaborative ARD committee meetings which lead to appropriate programming to meet the needs of students with disabilities. They bring best practices in ARD meeting facilitation to reduce potential disagreement with parents. This half day session will provide strategies for administrators who are new or nearly new to the ARD process. Participants will gain strategies to increase meeting effectiveness in an effort to improve the experience for ARD committee members. Utilizing best practices, administrators can lead ARD committees to create individualized programs beneficial for students with disabilities. Facilitated individualized education program (FIEP) will also be discussed.
